Larissa Kent, originally from Havelock North, has always had a passion for classical music. Her love for performing started with learning Violin at age 8, she only found her desire to sing during the last two years of high school. After winning Hawkes Bay young musician of the year in 2015, Larissa decided to study a BMus in classical voice performance at the University of Auckland where she has the fabulous Catrin Johnsson as her teacher. When not practicing or listening to music, Larissa finds pleasure in painting, drawing, playing badminton and baking/ decorating cakes.
